CONTENTS

PREFACE ..... S. OKAMURA v

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS vi

Session I: PRODUCTION OF SCIENTIFIC KNOWLEDGE

Setting Priorities for Basic Research ..... B. BARTOCHA & T. SOLOMON 3
Financial Aspects of University Research in Japan ..... H. UEKI 14
Innovation and the University: Can We Make Better Use of Faculty Talent? ..... M. D. ROBBINS 26
Interrelation between Fundamental Research and Technological Research in Japanese Fermentation Industries ..... H. SAMEJIMA 31
The Faculty Salary Problem: Payment of Faculty Salaries under NSF Grants ..... R. B. HARDY 37

Session II: COMMUNICATION OF SCIENTIFIC KNOWLEDGE

Communication ..... H. INOSE 65
Mobility of Scientists and Engineers to Emerging Scientific Specialties: What Is Known? ..... C. P. AILES 72
Survey Teams ..... S. OKAMURA & N. ONOZAWA 91
Programs in Applied Japanese Studies: The North Carolina Japan Center and Its University-Industry Connections ..... S. K. COLEMAN 101

Session III: APPLICATION OF SCIENTIFIC KNOWLEDGE

The Technological Relevance of Basic Research ..... C. Ganz. BROWN 113
Increased Reliance of Modern Industrial Technology on Scientific Outcomes ..... M. UENOHARA 135
Putting Science to Work in a Multi-Industry Corporation ..... A.R.C. WESTWOOD & J.M. BRUPBACHER 145
The Role of Universities in Research and Development ..... H. YOSHIKAWA 159
Policymaking for Earthquake Prediction in America and Japan ..... W. H. LAMBRIGHT 164

Session IV: BARRIERS TO THE TRANSFORMATION OF SCIENTIFIC KNOWLEDGE

Incentives and Disincentives to Participate in the Process of Innovation: Some International Speculations ..... A. J. GELLMAN 183
Direct and Indirect Channels for Transforming Scientific Knowledge into Technological Innovations ..... F. KODAMA 198
Barriers to the Transformations of Scientific Knowledge ..... K. SHIMO 205

The Role of Technology in Influencing the International Competitiveness of Specific U.S. Industries ..... T. W. SCHLIE 209

RESUME OF THE DISCUSSIONS "THE THIRD U.S.-JAPAN SCIENCE POLICY SEMINAR" ..... C. T. OWENS & N. ONOZAWA 227

BIOGRAPHIES 233